MINI Challenge #1

Recreate one of the following quote collections in InDeisgn. Try to make them look as close to the original as possible. Mugshots you can use are in the Journalism B folder under “mini challenge 1”)

MADE IN CANADA

JEREMY NOBLE, DENVER
Hometown: Orangeville, Ontario
Sophomore midfielder was named to 2011 NCAA All-Tournament Team after averaging five points a game in the playoffs.

ZACH PALMER, JOHNS HOPKINS
Hometown: Oshawa, Ontario
Junior attackman dished out a team-leading 25 assists last year.

LOGAN SCHUSS, OHIO STATE
Hometown: Ladner, British Columbia
Crafty All-American lefty can finish in tight spaces but also has the ability to find the open man.

>>TEAM PLAYERS

Joel Censer
He calls himself a Division III washout, but we'll let you in on a secret: Joel was an All-American defenseman at Haverford before joining LM in 2009. If you like his insights on the box-field dynamic (see page 46), you'll love his "UnCensered" columns Wednesdays on LaxMagazine.com.

Chris R. Vaccaro
A regional sports editor for Patch.com, Chris has covered lacrosse since his days as a student at Hofstra. When he's not writing, he reads Hunter S. Thompson, works on his golf swing and wishes Jack Bauer was still saving the world. See page 56 for his story on Harvard's three U.S. U19 team standouts.

Stacie Wentz
Speaking of Team USA, Stacie, U.S. national teams coordinator, joined US Lacrosse in 2005 after stints as an NCAA intern and with Shaquille O'Neal's life skills program at LSU. When she's not on the road with Team USA, she spends Saturdays coaching Johns Hopkins' cross country and track teams.

MADE IN CANADA

CARTER BENDER, HARTFORD
Hometown: Caledon, Ontario
All-American senior midfielder/attackman is a bruising 6-foot-3 swing player with hands to match.

ROBERT CHURCH, DREXEL
Hometown: Coquitlam, British Columbia
Junior attackman can feed (22 assists) or finish (27 goals), with a penchant for game-winners.

MARK COCKERTON, VIRGINIA
Hometown: Oshawa, Ontario
Sophomore midfielder had a coming out party championship weekend, including a three-goal, one-assist outburst in the NCAA semifinals.

TRAVIS COMEAU, GEORGETOWN
Hometown: Red Deer, Alberta
Only 5-foot-8 and 155 pounds, the All-Big East junior attackman shot 47 percent last season.
